THE ARREST OF THE DEATH

Victim's Body Found in Automobile at Salem

MEXICAN AS EAGER TO AVOID GLASH WITH U. S.

Washington, July 5.—In its latest note to the United States government, delivered to Secretary of State Lansing this morning, the Mexican government is silent as to any specific reply to the United States demands for an explanation as to Carranza's intentions, but pledges that it "will employ all efforts that may be at its disposal to avoid the recurrence of new incidents which may complicate and aggravate the situation."

The note then states that the Mexican government hopes the United States will do the same.

The note states that the Mexican government is willing to consider a quick and practical way the remedies, which are necessary, which should be applied to the present situation. It states that it is willing to hear from the United States whether the offers of the Latin-American countries to mediate are acceptable to this government or whether direct negotiations between the two governments would be better.

Proofs of Sincerity.

The note cites the release of the Americans taken prisoners at Carrizal as proving the sincerity of the Mexican government in its efforts to bring about peace ending of the present difficulty. The full text of the note, as given out for publication at the Mexican Embassy, follows:

Washington, D. C., July 4, 1916.

Mr. Secretary:

I have the honor to transmit in continuation the text of a note I have just received from my government with instructions to present it to Your Excellency:

"Referring to the notes of June 20 and 25 last, I have the honor

Dedham Schoolboy Sues Principal for Alleged Assault

James Hardman, thirteen years old, through his father, James J. Hardman, of Dedham, today filed a suit for $500 in the Superior Court of Norfolk against Frank G. Fields, principal of the Ames Grammar School, Dedham, charging him with assault on February 9. The suit charges that Principal Fields threw the Hardman boy across a desk, and made him stay in that position for some time, so that he was bruised and sore from the punishment.

RETIRE AVIATOR IN SAN DIEGO ACCIDENT

Washington, July 5.—The War Department today announced the retirement with the rank of captain of First Lieutenant Lewis E. Goodler, Jr., whose injury months ago by falling with an aeroplane at the San Diego, California, training school resulted in an investigation ending in the court-martial of his father, Lieutenant-Colonel Lewis E. Goodler, Sr. The elder Goodler charged that his son had been sent up in a defective aeroplane and criticized officers in charge of the service.

PUT TORPEDOES ON TRACK; FINED $5

Sebastian Narasao, fifty years old, of Newton, gave vent to his fourth of July enthusiasm yesterday, by placing torpedoes on the street railway tracks nearby his home. As the cars passed there was a series of explosions that sounded like the report of a battery of machine guns. In the Newton court today Narasao paid a fine of $5.

WELLESLEY WOMAN FILES SLANDER SUIT

Annie G. Hall of Wellesley today filed a suit for $10,000, charging slander, in the Dedham Superior Court, against Isabelle Smith, alias of Wellesley. In the suit it is charged that the defendant said: "You have taken my husband away from me and have broken up my home."

REFUGEES ON WARD LINER 26 HOURS LATE

By International News Service. Havana, July 5.—The Ward liner Monterey arrived today from Vera Cruz, with a large number of American refugees. It was twenty-six hours late owing to a severe storm which it passed through.

POLICEMAN IS SUED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

James Newell, a Boston police officer, has been sued by Peter Brace of Brookline for $5,000, charging the officer assaulted him. The suit charges that Newell, on May 18, beat him with his fist and in other ways assaulted him.

PUT TEUTON LOSS AT HALF MILLION

By International News Service. Paris, July 5.—German and Austro-Hungarian losses of the past month total half a million men, according to figures presented today by the Matin. It was announced that the Austro-Hungarian losses of the past month, 212,500 unaccounted prisoners, the Italian 4700 and the Anglo-French forces 15,200. Multiplying the total of prisoners by two to estimate the number of killed and wounded, it makes an aggregate of slightly more than 800,000, or more than twelve army corps.

$10,000 JEWELS LOST BY MRS. C. P. GARDNER

Mrs. George P. Gardner of No. 11 Beacon street was the Boston woman who lost jewelry worth $10,000 while journeying by automobile to Woods Hole on June 21.

Mrs. Gardner, whose husband is a member of the Somerset and our club and a Harvard '17 man, on motoring to the Gardner Summer place on the Chilton Club. With her on her sister, Mrs. Charles T. Choate, the jewels, which included rings, pendants, necklaces and a number of heirlooms, were in a square green leather bag covered with black cloth. During the journey they were lost from the automobile.

Mrs. Gardner has advertised a reward of $100, which is in the hands of the police, for the return of the jewels. The jewels are left at No. 40 State street, which is her husband's business address.

The jewels have an unusual history, having been lost before this years ago and recovered under peculiar circumstances. In this case the jewels were lost from the automobile and a large reward failed to bring them back.

Either Gardner or her husband were found in the ruins. The jewels were found in the ruins. The jewels were found in the ruins.

AMERICAN STEAMER IS SUNK OFF DOVER

Dover, Eng., July 5.—The American steamer Jacob Luckenbach, bound from San Francisco to Leith, was sunk off Dover today in collision with the steamer Eddystone. The crew was saved. The Jacob Luckenbach disappeared today and was built in 1901 at Sunderland, England. Its port of registry was New York.

HELD AS SLAYER OF SOMERVILLE MAN

Charged with the murder of Alexander Somerville, a Boston builder, by whom Howe is employed as a salesman. The second accident occurred at Peabody, where an automobile, with the occupants, skidded and turned over on Central street. Four of the drivers of the car, two of the girls, were injured.

BOSTON HUNT FOR GLEW IN TRAGEDY

The arrival of an automobile containing four men and the body of a girl, propped up on the floor of the tonneau, in front of the home of Police Sergeant Charles Duffy of Salem at 4 a. m. today led quickly to the arrest in all of seven men and three girls in connection with the tragedy.

The dead girl was Miss Margaret Ward of Peabody, thirty years old and of comely appearance. The police say that she was the victim of illegal medical treatment, administered in a house in Roxbury.

The first arrests were those of six men in Salem, charged with being accessories, before or after the fact, to the alleged illegal medical treatment upon the girl victim.

Five of these were charged with being accessories before the fact. They were: CHARLES R. O'CONNELL of Peabody, attorney and former Representative from the Eleventh Essex District. JAMES O'CONNELL of Lynn, brother of Charles. GEORGE BARDWELL of U. S. S. Kearsgate. DANIEL J. DINEEN of No. 167 Boston street, Salem. WILLIAM COXLIN of No. 4 Beaver street.

The sixth arrest was that of Thomas J. Sexton of No. 43 Chestnut avenue, Peabody, driver of the death car. He was charged with being an accessory after the fact.

Later James O'Connell and Bardwell, the naval man, were bailed in $5,000 each. The other four were bailed in $2,500 each.

The other four arrests—three girls and the seventh man—took place later in Roxbury.

The quartet, living at No. 41 Warren street, was taken into custody by the police of Dudley Street Station. Captain Goodwin of Dudley street said that they were being held on suspicion in connection with the case.

Sexton, the chauffeur, who came to Roxbury with Sergeant Duffy of Salem, told Captain Goodwin that the girl was brought out to his car through a gate opening into the yard in the rear of No. 42 Warren street.

QUESTION GIRLS. The police quizzed tenants of the house. All denied knowing of such a case. The police found blood-stained garments on one of the yard.

CARRANZA WANTS TO SETTLE CONTROVERSY BY DIRECT NEGOTIATIONS

U. S. CAPTIVES OF CARRIZAL FIGHT returned to border minus half their clothing. The large picture shows one of the prisoners given up by Carranza, as he crossed the international bridge to El Paso. to as in Four Excellency that the immediate release of the Carrizal prisoners was a further proof of the sincerity of the desire of the government to reach a peaceful and satisfactory arrangement of present difficulties. This government is anxious to solve the present conflict, and it would be unjust to state that it would be misinterpreted.

CAUSES OF CONFLICT.

"It is also the Mexican government that earnestly suggested a plan for cantonments along its boundary line during the conference of Ciudad Juarez and El Paso. The government is disposed now, as it has always been, to seek an immediate solution of the two points which constitute the true cause of the conflict between the two countries, to wit:

"The American government has been assuming that the insecurity of its frontier is a source of difficulty, and the Mexican government on its part believes that the stay of American troops in Mexican territory, aside from being a trespass on the sovereignty of Mexico is the immediate cause of the conflict.

"Therefore, the withdrawal of American troops on the one hand, and the protection of the frontier on the other, are the two essential problems. The solution of which may be the directing object of the efforts of both governments.

"The Mexican government is willing to consider in a quick and peaceful way, and prompted by a spirit of concord, the remedies which should be applied to the present situation.

"Several Latin-American countries have offered their friendly mediation to the Mexican government, and the latter has accepted it in principle. Therefore, the Mexican government only awaits information that the government of the United States would be disposed to accept this mediation for the purpose mentioned above, or whether it is still of the belief that the same results may be attained by means of direct negotiations between both governments.

WILL EXERT EVERY EFFORT.

"In the meantime this government proposes to employ all efforts that may be at its disposal to avoid the recurrence of new incidents which may complicate and aggravate the situation. At the same time it hopes that the American government on its part may make use of all efforts to prevent also that new acts of its military and civil authorities of the frontier may cause new complications. I avail myself of this opportunity to reiterate to Your Excellency the assurance of my most distinguished consideration.

(Signed) "C. AGUILAR."
Having thus complied with the higher instructions of my government, it affords me the pleasure to reiterate to Your Excellency the assurance of my highest consideration.

WASHINGTON HOPEFUL THAT CRISIS WITH MEXICO IS OVER

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, July 5.—General Carranza's reply to the American note of June 25 and the ultimatum of June 25 has ended for the time being all talk in Washington. High administration officials, after hastily examining the document, delivered today to the State Department, say that it seems to open up a way for a speedy adjustment of all differences between the government and the de facto government of Mexico. The note, a model of brevity, signed by Foreign Minister Aguilar, breathes confidence in its every paragraph, and while again insisting that the presence of American troops on Mexican soil—which is characterized as a trespass on the sovereignty of Mexico—is the immediate cause of the conflict between the governments, General Carranza for the first time personally assumes part of the blame by admitting that the insecurity of the frontier gives the United States a just cause for complaint against his government.

PAYES WAY TO PARLEY.

If doing so, officials said, he ties the hands of the administration so far as any aggressive military measures in Mexico proper are concerned, and opens the way to a diplomatic parley to settle all points in dispute. Carranza directly pledges himself to employ all means to prevent any new incidents that will complicate the situation. He says he has accepted in principle the suggestion of the Latin-American that mediation be resorted to to settle the points in difference, but also asks whether direct negotiations would be favored by the United States.

Both at the White House and at the State Department it was said that the fact that the note was not responsive to the demand of the United States that Carranza withdraw his intentions toward the Mexican expedition now in Mexico, and whether General Trevino, in ordering the attack on the Texas-Cuero, was in violation of Carranza, did not in response to orders from Mexico City, will not cause any complications.

Carranza's statement that the release of the Carrizal prisoners was a "proof of sincerity" likely will be accepted as covering this point in view of the general friendly tone of the communication.

CRISIS IS PASSED.

A copy of the note was sent to President Wilson at the White House as soon as it had been translated. However, it was said that no official statement would be forthcoming until the note had been translated into English to "digest it." No effort was made to speed the reply, to speed the reply, to speed the reply.

Secretary of State Lansing said the note would take the regular course. He made the significant statement, however, that his refusal to discuss mediation with Minister Calderon on the two occasions that the Latin-American diplomatic corps brought the question to his attention could not be taken as meaning that mediation would not be considered "under certain contingencies."

One of these contingencies, it was admitted, had been met by the change in the default attitude previously adopted by the de facto government of Mexico.

Indicating his belief that the difference between the two countries now can be adjusted, Secretary Lansing announced that he would leave for home at Watertown, N. Y. tomorrow for a month's vacation.

He will leave the department in the hands of Counselor Frank Polk, who becomes acting secretary.

When Mr. Lansing was asked whether the Carrizal expedition now would be withdrawn, he said that was a matter for Secretary of War Wood to decide.

The latter, upon being told this, refused to accept the responsibility.

and said Carranza was acting under direct orders from the State Department.

Officials say that the probabilities are that the expedition will remain for the present but will be withdrawn when Carranza announces that he has his troops so disposed that further border raids are impossible.

U. S. Army Will Sit Tight on the Border

By WALLACE E. SMITH, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

El Paso, Texas, July 5.—Once more the army of the United States, stronger than at any time since the current series of Mexican troubles began, is to assume an attitude of "watchful waiting" along the border.

From the gulf to the west coast its numbers will be posted north of the Mexican border—in await the next outbreak across the Rio Grande. This time "watchful waiting" will be given new significance, however, by the fact that the army will be prepared to push a real expedition or invasion of Mexico in the event of new trouble.

This new plan—or rather return to the old plan—seems certain today, and it came from the hands of the general who has been in command since General Carranza's new note to President Wilson was quite moderate in tone, and officials reported that Carranza's reply following the return of the prisoners and loot taken at Carrizal is expected to disperse the war clouds that have piled up on the border so continuously in the past few weeks.

General Pershing's expected return to the border will place the entire American army in the north side of the international boundary line. As soon as he returns, the administration's plan for the reformation of the southern division of the army is expected to go into effect.

With the support of the militia which is yet to arrive by thousands today the border will be well policed. The situation will be a reply to the critics—the leaders of whom are Carranza and his staff—who have declared that lack of sufficient border patrol has been responsible for Mexican border outrages. Had it been properly policed, these critics claim, the incidents of Columbus, El Paso, Douglas, and other raids and massacres could not have occurred.

If the information plan is carried out this theory will have a real test. Back of it will be the sustaining thought that in event of a new outbreak, the American army will be in a position to start at once on the trail of the invaders. There should be none of the delay and lack of preparedness which marked the beginning of the Carrizal expedition after Villa crossed the border to make his escape.

Plans for the invasion of Mexico to be carried out ten days ago, are still on the map, and the big four-point-avenue are still mounted behind 35 Paso. But the reported docility of Carranza's note seems to stop for the time being fulfillment of the plans and to spike the guns with diplomatic language.

General George Bell, Jr., in command of Fort Bliss, today sent officers to Yuma, fourteen miles from here, to investigate reports that Mexican soldiers had fired on United States troops on this side. According to the first official report the Americans were near the border cutting brush when the Mexicans opened fire. The Americans took to cover as the Mexicans opened at them, but did not return the fire.

The enemy attacked Belloy-Ro-Barn, of which he was able to occupy temporarily the eastern section, but a counter offensive put the entire village back in the hands of our troops. The Germans are still maintaining themselves on the outskirts, where the battle is very sharp. All counter-attacks directed against our positions have been broken up by our fire. The total number of unaccounted prisoners taken up to the present time is more than 5,000. The exact number of guns captured is not yet known, but the single army corps operating north of the Somme has captured thirty guns.

On the left bank of the Meuse an enemy attack late yesterday against the Anserot redoubt was completely repulsed by our machine gun fire. Between the region of Anserot and Hill No. 204 the Germans launched a violent attack. Despite the employment of flaming liquids in large quantities by the enemy, the attack was repulsed.

Berlin Reports All Attacks Are Repulsed

By International News Service. Berlin, July 5.—Although the British and French armies on the Somme front have made repeated attacks against the German positions, they have made no further progress since last night. This announcement was made by the War Office today.

Hard fighting is in progress in spite of the bad weather. The War Office report says: "West front.—From the north-east to the south there have been minor engagements with lively artillery action, but it is unable to sweep forward on a front long enough to permit it to break through. In proof of this fact they cite the news that since the attacking of the first line by the allies, the Germans have recaptured some of the lost territory."

The general impression in Berlin military circles is that the allies are not hopeful of determining the war in the Western front, but are trying to relieve the pressure on Verdun.

Troops from Verdun Fighting on Somme.

By FREDERICK PALMER, Special Correspondent of the International News Service. Press Headquarters with the British.

WAR SUMMARY

While bad weather and increased German power of resistance seem to have measurably slowed up the British drive to the north, the French along the Somme have made further gains of no little importance, according to today's Paris communique. The capture of trenches east of Curly and the German position at Sermont Farm constitute a step further toward the taking of Peronne, which is the immediate French objective in the great offensive movement which is now in its fifth day.

Peronne is the centre of highway and railway lines which are of great strategic value to the Germans, and if this important town falls, Paris and London will have something substantial to rejoice over. French artillery is already hurling a deluge of shells into Peronne and its retention, judging from allied reports, is hourly becoming a more difficult task for its Teutonic defenders.

The appearance of the advance guard of the Russians again on the Hungarian plains, as reported from Bucharest and Petrograd, is the feature of the news from the eastern front. The forward movement of the Czar's armies, which appears not to have been halted by the Carpathian barrier, is again assuming a political aspect which may well cause misgivings in Budapest and Vienna. With Bukovina now wholly occupied by Russia, pressure on Rumania for intervention on the side of the allies will inevitably be renewed, particularly if the Anglo-French offensive should continue to make headway in the west.

Army in France July 5.—There was a heavy bombardment all night south of the Anserot river. The Germans made counter attacks, but they were repulsed. In the region of Coulamont, three miles south of Thiepval, the British attacked the German position in a house fire, but were repulsed. The battle so far has cost 60,000.

Repulse German Counter Attacks.

By SYDNEY B. CAVE, International News Service Staff Correspondent. London, July 5.—German counter attacks, which were driven home with the strength of a battering ram, were delivered against the British front between the Anser and Somme rivers last night.

All of these assaults were repulsed, the British War Office announced today.

The text of the War Office report follows: "Headquarters report heavy fighting during the night in the region of the Anser and Somme rivers. We have made more progress at some important points. German artillery is shelling certain positions with some violence. At Thiepval two determined attacks were made against our positions, but were repulsed. On the balance of the British front there have been no important developments."

A later report says: "Hand to hand fighting and actions were fought during the night between the Anser and Somme rivers. Five hundred more prisoners were captured."

Russians Take New Positions in Galicia.

Petrograd, July 5.—Fighting of the most violent character is now going on in Galicia.

The fortified town of Ekmovitch, east of Baranovitch, has changed hands a number of times, but is now in possession of the Russians. West of Kolki, today's War Office report says, the Russians have occupied the first line positions of the Germans.

The following is the text of the official report: "Northwest of Baranovitch the enemy is endeavoring to stop our offensive. Ekmovitch, east of Baranovitch, has changed hands repeatedly, but is now in our possession."

Northwest of Charkovsk we occupied a strongly fortified enemy sector in the region of Ekmovitch, taking a number of prisoners."

GERMANS TELL OF 2 NAVAL BATTLES

By International News Service. Berlin, July 5, via Bayville.—Two naval engagements were fought in the Baltic south of Helsingborg on the night of June 28-29, both of which were successful for the Germans, says an official announcement made through the Overseas News Agency today. It follows:

"German torpedo boats, twenty miles south of Helsingborg, sank three hostile destroyers, apparently of the Novik type. The Novik destroyers were built in 1911 and carry four 4-inch guns and four machine guns and four torpedo tubes. Their complement is 100 men."

"The Germans opened fire and the enemy ships immediately turned and made off, their escape being favored by a rainstorm."

"Later the Germans noticed new clouds of smoke toward the east and the German ships were directed toward them. Two hostile cruisers of the Oskar type were sighted and were recognized."

"The Oskar ships attacked the Russians with torpedoes and with their artillery. One of the Russian men of war, in which time the Russians were sinking the German freight ship with guns of all calibers. The firing ceased, however, and for some time, which caused the adversaries to lose sight of each other."

WHEN TROUBLED WITH PIMPLES

Which Annoy and Disfigure, Use Cuticura to Soothe and Heal.

"My trouble first started with little blisters on my nose, and then they turned into pimples and covered my whole face. The pimples were large and red, and came to a head and itched something terrible. I was afraid to touch my face, and I could hardly sleep. I was ashamed to go anywhere for about a year."

"My face was this way when I saw Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and sent for a free sample. In about a week I noticed an improvement, and I bought more and when I used two boxes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment my face was healed. (Signed) Miss Grace Reming, 42 Concord St., Lawrence, Mass., March 7, 1916."

Your complexion may be clear and smooth now but you value it you will wish to use a toilet soap which will maintain its beauty, and prevent any possible skin trouble. Such a soap is Cuticura. It meets with the approval of the most discriminating."

Many Arrests for Girl's Death

ethelaines. They said later that the three girls who were finally taken to the station admitted the clothing belonged to them, but asserted it had been out on the line since Monday night. The three girls and the young man taken with them strenuously denied knowing anything about the Peabody girl.

The police believed at first, they said, that the Peabody girl was dead when taken from the other house.

But former Representative O'Connell, in a statement in Salem, said that the girl was alive when brought out and put in the automobile and that she was in the car did not realize that she had expired until they stopped the car in front of her brother-in-law's house on Boston street in Salem.

When Sergeant Duffy was called out of the house at 2 a. m. he was told the sister-in-law was sick. He looked at the men in the car, and exclaimed: "That girl is dead."

From Charles O'Connell's statement, therefore, the unfortunate girl expired while she was being taken up.

The North Shore in the morning mist CHAFFETTER'S STORY.

Sexton, the chauffeur, told the police that when the girl was brought out from the house a handkerchief was held to her nose. The chauffeur said he did not know what that was for.

According to stories told by Sexton, Charles O'Connell and the police, it appears that Charles O'Connell and his niece came to Boston last night from Salem. Sexton drove up from Peabody in one of his cars.

Sexton says he met Dineen at the North station and took him out to Roxbury where the girl was put in the car. Charles O'Connell and Dineen returned to Salem on the midnight train. Just how much came up to the car with Sexton was not stated but there were at least three men in the machine before Sexton and the dead girl when the car was stopped in front of Sergeant Duffy's house. Charles O'Connell said that after returning to Salem by train, he joined the auto party on Boston street, on which the Duffy live.

After Sergeant Duffy discovered his sister-in-law's death he made investigation that speedily resulted in arrests. Patrolman Healey, who "saves" the Boston street neighborhood, worked with the sergeant.

James O'Connell, Bartlett, Dineen and Sexton were arrested at the machine. Former Representative O'Connell, and William Coffin, who evidently had left the party, were arrested later. Coffin's home, No. 4 Beaver street, Salem.

EX-SOLOV'S VERSION.

After he was named former Representative O'Connell made this statement:

"I went to Boston last night and came back to Salem by train. One of the members of the party that was in the automobile had come to me earlier and had told me that the girl was sick. He asked me what to do. I said: 'By all means get the girl home.'"

"I went up by train, as I said before, with my machine. They lifted the car from Sexton at Peabody, who then drove for customers."

"They went to a house at Warren and Seeger streets in Roxbury. There they got the girl and put her in the car. She was alive at that time. I came back by train and met them on Boston street in Salem."

"When the car got to Salem they did not know whether to take the girl to her parents' home at No. 53 North East street, Peabody, or to the home of Mrs. Duffy, her sister, at No. 130 Boston street in Salem."

"They decided to go to the sister's and so started there. They got Duffy out and told him that his sister-in-law was sick. He investigated and said: 'That girl is dead.'"

"This was the first time I knew that the girl had died en route. We were all arrested."

SEEN BOSTON CLEWS.

Medical Examiner Frank R. Atwood of Salem viewed the body of the girl, then ordered it to an undertaker's room, where he arranged later to perform an autopsy. Finding result of the autopsy the arrangement of the arrested men was held off and the "necessary" charges were first written on the police blotter, remained without change.

Meanwhile Sergeant Duffy, in spite of the shock to himself and his home, held his brother-in-law of the victim himself to following up the case as a police officer.

The sergeant hurried to Boston last night and viewed the body of the girl. He was only too willing to do all he could to unravel the death mystery in which his car had been used.

The sergeant and chauffeur went to Duffy street police station and talked with Captain Goodwin. The police later quoted Duffy as saying: "I drove the car from Salem to Boston last night and went to the North Station, where I met James O'Connell, who ordered me to drive to Warren street in Roxbury. I stopped the car in Warren street, just off Washington street. O'Connell got out and left me waiting there. I went to lunch."

RUSH CHILDREN AWAY FROM EPIDEMIC

By International News Service.

New York, July 5.—Following by the score, physicians of New York and Brooklyn today called to aid the municipal and State governments in their campaign against infantile paralysis, the dread disease that is causing dozens of deaths among the little ones.

Infantile paralysis is spreading in Greater New York, despite the most heroic efforts of health authorities to stamp it out. Here are the figures made public today, showing the new cases reported during the past twenty-four hours, as compared with the day previous:

PAST TWENTY-FOUR HOURS.
New Deaths.	102
Recovering.	10
PREVIOUS TWENTY-FOUR HOURS.
New Deaths.	98
Recovering.	10

The order barring all children under sixteen from moving picture shows went into effect today and it is thought to curb the disease other measures of the same kind will be taken. At first the health authorities considered closing the municipal playgrounds, but finally decided this was inadvisable at present. In former epidemics the disease had been confined to the poorer sections of the city, but this time children in the finer residential sections, particularly in Brooklyn, have been stricken. This has caused the hurried flight from the city of well-to-do parents and their children. It was estimated to date that fully 50,000 children have been in the arms of the mothers in the last twelve years have been taken from the city since the epidemic began to spread.

Since January 1, according to Health Commissioner Emerson, 519 children in the borough of the city have been stricken with the disease. One hundred and twenty-six deaths have been reported.

The epidemic spread into the suburbs, and a dozen cases were reported from New Jersey and Long Island towns.

Somerville Fireworks Tonight.

The exhibition of fireworks scheduled at Recreation Field, Somerville, last evening, was postponed until this evening, weather permitting.

MCCALL NAMES MANY NEW BOARDS

Governor McCall today made the following appointments:

Commissioner to consider the question of physical training for boys and girls in the public schools.

President Harry A. Garfield of Williams College, Dr. William A. Brooks, the former medical advisor in Harvard athletics, and Sarah Louise Arnold, dean of Simmons College.

Commissioner to study the need of establishing a state constabulary.

Walter A. Croft, of Boston, D. Channing Brewer of Boston, Russell B. Lane of Pittsburg.

Commissioner to study question of social insurance.

John P. Meade of Brockton, Elias Lawrence Spencer of Cambridge and Wendell P. Thore of Boston.

Commissioner to establish memorial to Sixth Massachusetts Infantry in Forto River General Charles K. Darling, former commander of the Sixth; former Mayor Edward Gilman of Somerville, and Edward J. O'Brien of Wakefield, former Council of the Sixth.

Governor McCall sent these appointments to the Council for confirmation: Arthur J. Derbyshire of Haverhill, chairman; Dr. Frankwood E. Williams of Cambridge; Mrs. Esther Andrews of Brookline, who is prominent in social welfare work; Nathan Franklin of Boston and Maude M. Rockwell of Boston, who is prominent in Catholic circles.

Advisory Council on the Law.

Francis T. Iwajew, Jr. of New Bedford, Charles L. Hilditch of Haverhill and Preston G. Hall of Monaca.

Governor McCall also appointed Rear-Admiral Francis T. Iwajew, Jr. of New Bedford, chairman of the Massachusetts Nautical School to succeed the late John F. Berry.

A certificate of "honorary citizenship" waiting outside the executive chamber went away disappointed, as the Governor made no appointment to the Waterways and Commerce and the other related commissions.

The Parole Board members will get $1,500 a year and the State's Attorney will get $1,000 a year. The other appointments named by the Governor are unannounced.

Hair Often Ruined by Washing with Soap

Soap should be used very carefully if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins the hair.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary milled coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get milled coconut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

Inhalas Gas and Dies.

Martin Davidson, thirty-eight, of Lambert avenue, Roxbury, died on the way to the City Hospital from the effects of inhaling illuminating gas.

McCall Again in Field; Papers Taken Out

Announcement of Governor McCall's candidacy for re-election was made today.

Nominations papers for the Governor were taken out from the Secretary of State's office by Charles B. Baxter, former Mayor of Boston, who managed the primary and election campaigns for Governor McCall last fall.

The paper will be immediately circulated for signatures.

It is expected that Governor McCall will later issue a formal statement, setting forth his achievements of his administration as the basis of his claim for re-election.

Mr. Baxter has just returned from a long vacation trip in Florida. The application for Governor McCall's papers by Mr. Baxter is the first act of the new campaign.

Announcement was also made today that the Progressive party of Massachusetts would give up the State Committee headquarters in the old Herald building on Washington street about July 15. The State Committee will meet from time to time in temporary headquarters.

The abandonment of our headquarters does not mean that we will relinquish our State organization," said Treasurer Lawrence O. Brooks of the Progressive State Committee.

"We will make an active fight to retain our party unity. Many of us believe that there is and always will be an urgent need for a third party of men who believe in progressive and radical principles.

"The next meeting of our State committee I have no doubt that an effort will be made to ensure the Progressive National Committee for the endorsement of Mr. Hughes. We believe the National Committee want far beyond its right and its duty. It should not have endorsed the candidate of any other party."

Treasurer Brooks said he believed no concerted move would be made by the Progressive leaders to bring the Bull Moose of Massachusetts to the support of either Mr. Wilson or Mr. Hughes.

Boston Juniors Now at Plattsburg

By JOHN B. ATKINSON.
Staff Correspondent of the American.
Burlington, Vt., July 5.—Boston's contingent of more than 700 men, the largest group from New England, has arrived here at 7 o'clock this morning. The special train, running in four sections, each of ten cars, arrived on time and nearly all reported a comfortable night on the train. They were met here by almost a thousand others from other parts of the country and after breakfast at the Vermont Hotel took the steamer across beautiful Lake Champlain to the camp at Plattsburg.

gent differs considerably from the one that left Boston just a month ago today; for these men are enrolled for the Junior Camp which lasts a week longer than the others. The men that left Boston last night and who crowded through Burlington streets this morning are Boston's fairest.

SPIRIT OF DEMOCRACY.
They are college men or members of this year's classes, and are the sons of bankers, brokers, contractors, lawyers. There are, however, many young men who are sacrificing wages and pleasures to prove to themselves as exponents of preparedness.

Boston Piano Dealer Has National Reputation For Low Price Piano Selling

PIANO MERCHANTS OF AMERICA MEET

J. P. COLLINS AT HOTEL ASTOR, NEW YORK

The below photograph shows America's leading piano merchants at their 15th Annual Dinner in the Hotel Astor's biggest dining hall—representative gathering of the best people in the piano trade, one of the finest and wealthiest organizations in the country.

MY Big Summer Cut Price Piano Sale is now on-- into it I have put my entire stock of New Pianos marked down to figures that have given me my national reputation for low price piano selling. I was severely criticised at the dinner in New York for selling pianos at such ridiculously low prices. However, I fail to see how anyone is going to suffer by myself, and I intend to continue my policy of big sales and small profits. I have often told the public that I preferred to sell 100 pianos at $1 apiece profit than to sell one piano at $100 profit.

Sensational Film Draws Big House to Majestic

By HARLOW HARE.

"Where Are My Children," a sensational film drama dealing with the destruction of the unborn, has opened an engagement at the Majestic Theatre.

This picture was made by the Universal Company and its purpose, apparently is to show that birth control is better than criminal operations. It is a film point which hardly comes under the scope of the censor. Neither is it the business of the censor to declare whether a picture is fit or unfit to be presented to public. There are authorities who have control over such matters and when we find a film in operation we presume that it has passed the censor. This particular film came under the eyes of the motion picture producers' reviewers, but on the other hand it has been heartily endorsed by various enlightened socialists, moralists and clergymen, so there is much to be said on both sides.

WOMEN PACK THEATRE.

Went into the Majestic and found a motion picture going on. The house was packed with spectators, mostly women, who were enjoying themselves as hungrily as a high school girl who has abstracted a copy of Manuscript from her father's library. Very much we made the acquaintance of a post-bellum district attorney, with a butterfly wife. They had been married some years and had a son, but the wife, who was the attorney's second wife, had been abstracted to look hungrily after a hedge fund, and the attorney, who was a young man, had been abstracted to look after his little angel like these before we are through.

Just about this time Walter tries a case of a Dr. Humer, who has put under a book on "Birth Control," and has been arrested for issuing obscene literature. The doctor, who is a student, describes the horrors of the shame and the misery of consummation unwanted children, but the jury brings in a verdict on guilty.

FILMS ARE DRAMATIC.

While this trial is going on there is a story, alternating phases, of a society woman who is distressed because she will have to give up house for an interesting reason. Edmund, who is a student in law, and to and behold the two ladies visit a fashionable physician named Dr. Humer.

The distressed lady vanishes into the doctor's office and when she comes out an allegorical picture is shown of another unwanted infant wailing its way back to heaven.

The plot now moves rapidly and dramatically. A brother of Mrs. Watson comes to visit her. He is a student with a bad eye and a loud check suit, and he tries to kiss the thoughtless and is slapped for his pains.

The innocent little daughter of the housekeeper is fascinated by his smartness and falls his victim. Mrs. Watson rescues her brother from his predicament by suggesting, the same physician to whom she as recently took her friend and whom she has patronized in the past.

CLIMAX IS STROVE. But now comes a mishap. The girl dies. The case attracts public attention and the practitioner is hunted down. He is most eager that he should be punished and conducts the prosecution.

Practically the physician endeavors to introduce his home so that his influential patrons may save him in order to prevent their own names being brought into the case. He particularly hopes to reach Walter, his wife, but he fails.

A jury gives him seven years and he is freed by breathing threats. Then Watson in looking over the disputed books finds his own wife's name. It is the great climax of the picture.

Dramatically the picture is distinctly worth while. It is heavy and anything but amusing, and it goes down to its goal. If such a theme is fit for public presentation, it is certainly well produced.

Stars Head Week's Bill at Keith's Theatre

It seems like Old Home Week up at Keith's Theatre this week. Thomas A. Wise, Louise Dresser, Kenney and Jollie and John and Max Barker are chief entertainers, and every one is in prime fettle. In Boston. They had a great Fourth of July week last.

Mr. Wise appears in a heart-stirring play, "Christmas Time," and a supporting company of unusual strength. The sketch is by Roy Atwell and won the Lamb's Club silver cup offered for the best sketch of the year, presented at a Lamb's Club at the clubhouse. With Mr. Wise in the sketch are Edmund Shalit, Roy Fairchild and Albert Parker. Dainty and sweet-voiced Miss Dresser has some new and some old-time songs. If you want to see how a song is made popular an up and down song "Down by the River," her success from George M. Cohan's "Hello, Broadway."

Miss Dresser appeared Monday in costume and costume because, as she explained, her trunk and the trunk of Mr. Wise's company were invited everywhere to come back when she was "dressed up," and it certainly is a temptation to do so. Kenney and Jollie, real Bostonians, and the original "College Boys," have a lot of new jokes, and Kenney gave an imitation of Harry Lauder that drew a big laugh.

The Hearst-International Pictorial shows war scenes, including the militia getting ready and bound for the Mexican border, and many other events of the day.

Stomach's Best Friend

Sanfor's Ginger

Enables you to eat what you like and plenty of it. Nothing better or more helpful and healthful.

A delicious combination of ginger, pineapple and French brandy for the relief of common colds, coughs, sore throats, and indigestion. Look for the Old Trade Mark of the wrapper, and you will always get the genuine Sanfor's Ginger. Forty years of experience, flavor and strength. Try it and you will be convinced.

Why Spend your Money, "with a Spade"?

The greatest Need of this Nation is THRIFT

THRIFT does not mean Penuriousness! Its first principle consists in getting FULL VALUE for each Dollar of Income expended.

Getting less is not complimentary to the intelligence of even a Millionaire. Being liberal and generous, in affairs where it is proper and deliberate to be so, differs widely from being thrifty, thoughtless and careless in buying things, on a business basis.

A habit of "Jumping at Conclusions," instead of Thinking out these Conclusions, costs many a man a lifetime of Un-success.

Too many Americans indolently act upon the shallow theory that an article "must be" WORTH more, merely because it Costs more.

They are thus taxed a heavy price, all through life, for such an indolent habit of Thought. They work hard, industriously and intelligently to acquire money.

Then (for their personal needs) they "Spend it with a Spade."

They "spread" it without a fraction of that shrewdness and thoroughness with which they acquired it.

Is this complimentary to the judgment of even the Wealthiest?

Do people become Wealthy who acquire the careless HABIT of "Spending Money," instead of intelligent, thoughtful BUYING with it?

Get your Money's Worth!

ABOUT 12,000,000 Tires for Motor-Cars and Trucks were made and sold in U. S. A. last year (1915).

That quantity was divided up among some 200 Makers, Makes or Brands of Tires. But, of this total production a full FOURTH was made by a single Rubber Concern.

That Concern is the E. F. Goodrich Company. Its Motor Car, and Truck, Tire Output and Sales, during its latest fiscal year, were FIFTY PER CENT (50%) LARGER than the nearest Output and Sale, by any other Rubber or Tire Concern in America.

Behind this huge production is a 47-year Experience in Rubber-Working—an all-sufficient Capital and a raw-material Purchasing-Power indicated by its manufacture and sale of over 130,000,000 pounds of Rubber Products in 1915.

Back of all that again, will be found an unquestioned RECORD for Business-Integrity, for Good-Faith, Square-Dealing—and a long-confirmed POLICY of giving the maximum Value feasible, to Consumers and Dealers.

MONEY, therefore, cannot make BETTER Fabric Tires, at ANY price, —than this Goodrich Experience, Purchasing-Power, Capital, and Intention are now producing.

And—the Goodrich Fair-List Prices quoted herewith, on Fabric Tires, could never be so LOW (for such HIGH quality) without the enormous VOLUME, which so reduces Cost as to make these lowest prices possible.

When you pay MORE than the Goodrich Fair-List prices here quoted for ANY Fabric Tire you are NOT getting better Tires.

You are simply "Jumping at Conclusions"—"Spending your Money with a Spade," and cultivating that careless Habit of buying which is the Enemy of Thrift.

Test out Goodrich Tires against their Fair-List PRICES,—and see!

Why?

Light starts a chemical change

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, there having been no reaction of importance during the morning. In fact the trend continued upward after a strong start. Trading slackened in the second hour, however.

Gains at 12 o'clock included Anaconda & Inspiration, 1/2; Chino, 1/2; Kennecott, 1/2; Utah Copper, 1/2; American Smelting, 1/2; U. S. Steel, 1/2; Butte & Superior, 1/2; General Electric, 1/2; Goodrich, 1/2; Pressed Steel Car, 1/2; American Locomotive, 1/2; Crutcher, 1/2; Industrial Alcohol, 1/2; Mexican Petroleum, 1/2; Texas Co., 1/2; Maxwell, 1/2; Budebaker, 1/2; Chandler, 1/2; Williams-Owens, 1/2; Canadian Pacific, 1/2; Southern Pacific, 1/2; N. Y. Central, 1/2; and Union Pacific, 1/2.

Alaska Gold was off 1/2. During June it reports that 144,800 tons of ore were milled at an average of $1.64 per ton, against $1.40 for May.

The Boston market had remained strong, and gains included United Fruit, 1/2; American Zinc, 1/2; Butte & Superior, 1/2; Calumet & Arizona, 1/2; Copper Range, 1/2; Granby, 1/2; Green-Cannons, 1/2; U. S. Smelting, 1/2; Atlantic, 1/2; and West Indian common, 1/2 and preferred, 1/2.

Among stockholders were Alaska Gold and Old Dominion.

Most of the early trading on the Boston Curb was in Ray State Gas, Boston City, Boston & Corbin, Davis, Daily, Daily, National Iron, Cop and United Verde Extension.

The passing of the new regulation regarding the Mexican situation was reflected in advancing prices when the New York market opened. Many orders to buy accumulated over the holiday. Early trading was active.

American issues to make initial gains of a point or more were Baldwin, Canadian Pacific, Butte & Superior, United Fruit, U. S. Smelting, Budebaker, Chandler, Mexican Petroleum and Goodrich. A number of munition and Mexican issues were the most active.

Financial News in Brief:
According to General Manager McEntee the work of developing the Shamrock properties, which are in the Phoenix district of Yuma County, Arizona, will soon begin. Prompt shipment of the full equipment of mining machinery which has been brought is promised. Timber has been bought for the shaft.

Shipment estimates for the first six months of 1916 were at the rate of more than $11 a ton, an increase of 17.5 to 25 per cent.

June sales of Sears, Roebuck & Co. amounted to $17,438,311, an increase of 17.5 to 25 per cent.

The American Woolen Company has received within two weeks from the United States government orders for cloth totaling about $2,500,000. Within a few days it was awarded a $1,000,000 contract.

For the eleven months ended May, 1916, this country's exports exceeded imports by $1,515,002,000.

Railroad earnings for June increased $237,628,817, compared with the 1915 month. The New York increase was $4,521,039,341. These figures show how business has improved.

Self-Confidence and Self-Conceit---

What Is the Difference Between Them? Not Very Much Perhaps

Copyright, 1916, by the Star-Advertiser

The very GREATEST of MEN have been wonderfully free, so far as we know, from what we call self-conceit. They have had simple minds, a desire for truth so great that they could not even waste time thinking of themselves or studying their own ability. Their eyes, hopes and thoughts have been fixed so high that they could not get down as low as earth or their own little selves.

But the average "big man" is pretty apt to be what is called self-conceited in youth, before his ability is proved, and full of self-confidence later on, when he has succeeded, and when they use a more polite term in speaking of his self approval.

There is, of course, a form of self-conceit which is more idiocy—the foolish conceit of the vacant mind, the conceit of the monkey in the zoological garden, of the idle, fatuous human being doing nothing.

It is a very good thing for fathers and mothers to remember that what appears to be ONLY conceit may be the childish expression of real power. It is the parents' duty to curb conceit, to inculcate modesty, to prevent vanity from taking the place of ambitious effort in a child.

But those who foolishly and violently try to CRUSH the self-conceit of children are very apt at the same time to crush their ABILITY.

One of the worst results, in our opinion, of college life is this: The boy with conceit, sometimes only another name for ambition and determination, is crushed by the older boys. "The conceit is taken out of him." Many are delighted to think that colleges DO take the conceit out of young men. They forget that when they take out the conceit they also take out the self-confidence needed in later years, and change the young man of character into a polite, pleasant, conventional nothing.

Wolfe, the great fighter, who scaled the heights of Quebec, conquered the city and died, was at one time looked upon as a self-conceited braggart.

Before he was sent out by the English to undertake his great task, he walked up and down waving his sword and bragging about what he was going to do. His self-conceit was so great that the Prime Minister was tempted to take his command away from him. He didn't think it possible that so conceited a youth could have any real ability in him.

But when Wolfe began climbing up the steep heights of Quebec, that self-conceit found itself transformed into action and courage. As he was dying, news of victory came to him and cheered him, and that was all the cheer he wanted. He was perfectly satisfied to die.

Those that read now about Wolfe's "boyish self-conceit" realize that it wasn't a very bad thing for him to have it.

Schopenhauer was certainly an able writer; some people think him a great philosopher. His self-conceit was monumental. His mother was a famous novelist widely known. He was known only as the son of his mother, the novelist. He used to assure his mother—his stupid dislike of women apparently began in his childhood—that she would live to be known only as the mother of Schopenhauer. It was very bad taste, but it turned out to be true.

Poor Mrs. Schopenhauer's novels are forgotten, and she is known as the mother of the self-conceited boy.

Napoleon, a very young officer, thin, half starved, unknown, walked moodily about in Paris with hardly a penny in his pockets. He watched the fighting, the great struggle of the Revolution. And he said, "Give me five thousand men and I'll drive out all this rabble."

That was self-conceit THEN. It was also self-confidence, and extremely well founded self-confidence, as Napoleon's career proved.

Wagner, before any one else, knew himself and declared himself as the greatest musician except Beethoven. You could find easily in history a hundred such instances of early self-conceit proving itself the forerunner of well founded self-confidence.

The difference between self-confidence and self-conceit, we should say, is this: When a man inclined to brag a little or much, fond of talking about what he is GOING to do, turns into a failure, THAT IS SELF-CONCEIT.

And when the same kind of a man turns into a big success, THAT'S SELF-CONFIDENCE.

However, boys and young men who read this shouldn't imagine that they can become great LATER by being conceited NOW. They should not forget that self-conceit, when in visible and aggressive form, often keeps a man FROM THE VERY SUCCESS AT WHICH HE AIMS.

Self-conceit, bragging and all its demonstrations USE UP ENERGY. If you can kill the conceit or hold it in check, give up talking about what you are GOING to do and use that energy in actually doing something, you will stand a better chance later on of being talked of as one of the men that had self-confidence and were entitled to have it.

Remember, also, NOT TO BE DECEIVED BY THE FALSE KIND OF MODESTY. Sometimes the man who seems the most modest is really the most conceited—he has so big an idea of himself that nothing that can happen satisfies him, and therefore conceit stays away from him.

Even in the best of men the absence of conceit is often nothing more than the proof of a very great ambition that no success can gratify.

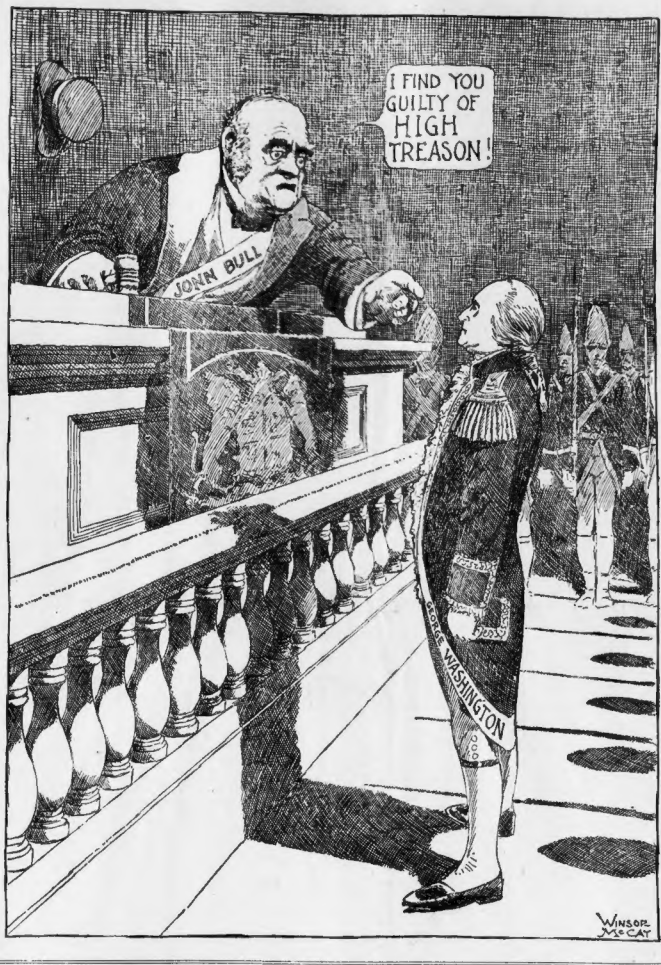

For instance, you can make a dark-skinned gentleman down on the Congo very happy and conceited by giving him a red dress with yellow spots.

But Achilles died without any notion of conceit. Shakespeare, who understood self expressed ambition better than any other man that ever lived, died peacefully without suspecting his own greatness.

How Hot Is the Sun? Scientists Find It One of Hard Questions

By Garrett P. Service

"HOW hot is the sun? I have a friend that pretends to scientific knowledge, who says the heat is hot, but cold, and that all the heat is manufactured on the earth. Is that so?" Reader—

Nobody knows, for sure, how hot the sun is. Its temperature at its surface has been estimated by different authorities, at different times, all the way from 3,000 degrees to 18,000,000 degrees, Fahrenheit! This does not mean that the sun is 5,000 times hotter at one time than at another, but simply that the figures that calculation gives as representing its temperature vary with the assumptions on which the calculation is based. The tendency now among men of science is to adopt the lower rather than the higher estimate, and it is usually said in present day textbooks that the temperature of the sun is probably 10,000 or 12,000 degrees. That is about three times as high as any artificial temperature that can be produced.

Sir Isaac Newton calculated the sun's temperature at nearly 4,000,000 degrees, Secchi made it 18,000,000 by one method of calculation, and only 250,000 by another. Ericson, the inventor of the Monitor, thought Newton's method the best, and put the figure at from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000. The estimates of Zollner, Spörer and Lane ranged from 50,000 to 100,000, and those of Foullie, Deville and Vieille from 3,000 to 10,000. Professor Young thought 18,000 degrees was about the correct figure.

The principal difficulty arises from the fact that we do not know for certain what is the law connecting the temperature of the surface of a highly heated body with the amount of radiation that it gives off in a unit of time, say a second. For bodies moderately hot, the surface temperature and the amount of radiation are almost directly proportional, and Newton assumed that this was true in all cases.

But it has been discovered that, with hotter bodies, the radiation increases much faster than the temperature, so that the best authorities now reject Newton's and all the other excessively high estimates.

As to your second question, your friend is right only in a certain sense. The sun is not cold, but extremely hot, and you would find it so if you could touch it. But you could never get to it, for at a distance of a quarter of a million miles it would scorch you in an instant! Nevertheless, the rays that it sends to the earth are not, in themselves, hot. They impart, but do not possess, temperature. On their unobstructed way through space they are so much heated that the electric impulses transmitted through a telephone wire are sound.

Just as those impulses may be transformed into sound by setting a diaphragm in motion, so the sun's rays are transformed into heat by setting the molecules of any body they fall upon into vibration. The space through which rays pass on their journey to the earth is not heated by them because it contains nothing that is capable of being set into molecular vibration by their impact.

Heat is a state in which the invisibly minute particles, of which all matter is made up, are kept in more or less violent agitation among themselves. This agitation produces vibrations in the all-pervading ether, and these etheric vibrations traveling swiftly away in all directions from the heated body constitute what we call radiation, or radiant energy.

Striking upon a colder body the radiation reproduces in it molecular agitation similar to that which the first heated body possessed. As this is the way in which the sun affects the earth—by sending radiation through the ether capable of producing the molecular vibration, or agitation, called heat—we see that the sun itself must be a hot body, although the rays which its heat gives rise to are not themselves hot.

It is the same with the sun's light. The rays of light are not light in themselves. For instance, to show what it meant, suppose you were placed out in empty space, facing so that you would look sideways at the light rays passing from the sun to the earth. You would not see them at all. You could only see them if you looked directly at the sun, so that the rays would enter your eyes, and, striking upon the retina, produce there the impression of light.

The rays passing by and not entering your eyes would be invisible because, in open space, there is no medium like the atmosphere to scatter the rays in all directions and thus produce an illumination all around. The sky at night is full of passing unburned and starburst, a vast and innumerable web of radiations, but they lie beyond the limits of the atmosphere, and only those are transformed into light which, by reflection from a planet, in the case of sunbeams, or by coming straight into the eye from a star, directly affect the nerves of vision.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

The Point of View

The Senate, with many a howl of horrible rage, has refused to raise the pay of a soldier at the front from fifteen to thirty dollars a month on the ground that we must not have an army of mercenaries or make profit out of patriotism.—New York Times.

HARK to the piercing and agonized wail From a horrified Senator, gasping and pale, Who points with dismay, and who views with alarm, And whipsaws the air with his flabby, fat arm, Because some base colleague has dared to declare That the pay of a private is not strictly fair, That it hardly is right For a soldier to fight

For almost the wage of a caddy—not quite, And that ducking of bullets and living on beans And being a target for shooting machines, And crossing the desert to fight for the flag, While safe-at-home Senators bluster and brag, Than warming a chair at a Senator's door!

HARK to the hideous cry of a fight That freezes the blood like a scream in the night Can it rise from the throat of the very same man We heard in the stanzas preceding? It can!

For some bonehead mutt (Roughneck language, Tut! Tut!) Has said that the Senator's pay should be cut!

That saving the air from a soft, padded chair And making dull speeches and tearing one's hair Is worth about sixty months—to be fair!

What unpatriotic maligner is this Who dares (Here the sound fades away in a hiss) Say Senators less! Hear the howl of distress!

We fear that the scheme will not meet with success! All which goes to show that the view point depends Upon how things work out for a Senator's ends.
